

Community / Professional Letter Template (Liver version):

Dear [NAME/GROUP NAME],

I'm reaching out about something deeply personal and important. I have been diagnosed with liver failure and need a liver transplant to live a longer and healthier life. I'm searching for a living liver donor, and I hope you'll take a moment to read and consider helping or sharing my story.

Most people don't realize that you can become a liver donor while you're still alive. Living liver donors don't donate their entire liver—only a portion of it. Both the donor's and the transplant recipient's livers grow back to full size within six to eight weeks.

A living liver donation offers the best chance for a successful, long-lasting transplant. Unfortunately, the wait time for a deceased donor liver can be as long as 5 years.

I'm sharing this because many living donors come forward through word of mouth, personal networks, and community connections. Even if you aren't a match or don't feel able to donate, sharing my story could help me find the donor I need.

Here's how you can help:

- Visit the Choose Donation website to learn more about living liver donation and whether it might be right for you.
- Share my need with others—in person, by email, or on social media.
- Keep me in your [prayers/thoughts] as I go through this journey.

If you'd like to learn more or explore whether you could be tested as a potential donor, you can contact me directly or begin the anonymous donor screening process here: [microsite link].

Thank you for taking the time to read this. Your support could give me a second chance at life.

With gratitude,
